Maximizing Potential

The Challenges for Security and the Terrorist Advantage

- Multitude of Threats in a Shrinking and Interconnected World
- Traditional Terrorism and Al Qaeda
- “War on Terror”
- Terrorist Requirements and how we Provide their Advantage?

The Potential for Failure

- Inappropriate Political / Military Response
- Impact of Emotion on Resource Allocation
- Infinite Number of Targets
- Audit on “War on Terror”

Interdependence 'Makes' Collaboration Essential

- Supply Chain Vulnerability
- Key Points Must be Protected at All Costs
- Inadequate Military Resources
- Funding – The Intelligence / Military Balance
- Business Continuity is in Everyone's Interest and our Motivation Must be Self Interest

Summary

- Effective Security of Energy Supply, particularly from Terrorist Threat, will be dependent on an Intelligence Led, Cooperative and Coordinated Approach between Governments, Industry and Insurers, unencumbered by Short-Term Political or Business Expedients.
